Books are lovely friends

Grown in the Garden of Knowledge;

Books are the greenery of our life

Where we rest and receive knowledge.

Oh! this examination!
What a botheration
For a growing generation!
I’ll write an application
To the Minister of Education
To remove Examination
Which gives me so much tension!
Oh, dear examination,

Why do you come every session?

3. LESSONS FOR LIFE

In the olden days, people lived together as joint families. The grandparents in the house were given the important responsibility of tending to the young ones, teaching them the ways of life and helping them decipher right from wrong. But with the number of nuclear families on the rise, this role seems to have gotten lost.

Grandparents having learnt from their own life experiences have a wealth of knowledge and wisdom. Here are some of the lessons we learnt from our grandparents.
Don't let your happiness depend on something you may lose.

- HAPPINESS IS NOT FOUND, IT'S CREATED.
- ALWAYS LAUGH AND HAVE FUN IN EVERYTHING YOU DO.
- IF YOU ARE GOING TO DO SOMETHING, DO IT RIGHT.
- NEVER TAKE YOURSELF TOO SERIOUSLY.
- BE GOOD TO YOURSELF BY VALUING YOURSELF.
- NO KNOWLEDGE IS EVER WASTED.
- MAKE SURE YOU SIT DOWN AT THE DINNER TABLE AS A FAMILY EVERY NIGHT AND SHARE A MEAL.
- ACTION SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORKS.
- SAY 'PLEASE' AND 'THANK YOU', RESPECT OTHER PEOPLE, NO MATTER WHO THEY ARE OR WHAT THEY DO.
- THINGS ALWAYS HAVE A WAY OF WORKING OUT-SOMETIMES YOU HAVE TO WORK HARD, BUT JUST TRY AND YOU'LL BE SURPRISED AT WHAT HAPPENS.

REETHIKA IX - A
It was a holiday
And also a very fine day.
My mother sent me to play
The weather was very pleasant to say.
Me and my friends decided to play lock n key
And my mother was busy in making dad’s tea.
Then suddenly my mother squeaked,

oh! there is a snake!

Then we all gave the game a break.
Then we all ran to see what had happened
And saw the window slightly opened.
My mother shouted, ‘don’t go near, there is a snake’
Seeing the snake we all were shaken.

It was in the colour carmine
And was shiny in the margin.
Bush master was it’s name
Till then my father came.
Seeing the snake,
he said, ‘Don’t be afraid,

IT’S JUST A GARDEN SNAKE!!!!
